LOCAL TEAM WINS.

High School Boys Defeat Stevens Point by a Score of 10 to 0.

The football team from the high school won their first victory over Stevens Point on Saturday by a score of 10 to 0.

The boys had felt that they were rather light in weight and had put in some hard practice to make up for any deficiency in this way, and they feel greatly encouraged over their victory. The following concerning their play is from the Stevens Point Journal:

The Grand Rapids team was slightly the heavier and seemed especially well drilled and experienced in the technicalities of the game and physically were full of life and ginger. They tackled low, showed good team work and made steady gains.

The line up of the teams was as follows:

Grand Rapids:	Stevens Point:
Hayes.....Loberg
Croshaw.....G. Jensen
McFarland.....Nelson
Podawiltz.....McDonald
Chose.....Pasternack
Little.....Sellers
J. McCarthy.....Rosenow
Corcoran.....Kremks
Nimtz.....Buchan
W. McCarthy.....Young
Brenan.....Gerald Jensen

Officials, Schofield and Oswald; time keepers, Olson and Gilkey. The substitutes for the Grand Rapids team were Stout, Nobles and Natwick. Among those who went over to attend the game were Messrs. H. L. Youker, W. Webb and Gerald Fritzsinger.

A reception was given the visitors that evening at the Normal gymnasium but as the Grand Rapids people had to leave at 8 10 they could not take much part in this.

A Model Barber Shop.

One of the things that the people of Grand Rapids, at least the male portion, have been in need of for a long time is a first class barber shop, and it begins to look as if the wants were going to be filled. Frank Dudley, the west side tonsorial artist, is soon to move into his new shop in the new hotel Dixon, and his place promises to be such a place as is seldom found in a city of this size. Mr. Dudley has secured the services of Albert Newsbaum, a man whose qualifications as a barber cannot be excelled in the state, who is also an expert in massage treatment and in applying facial tonics.

Mr. Dudley's shop will be fitted with the best appliances that can be bought, everything being of the latest and most approved pattern. There will be hot and cold water for shampooing, also three bathrooms fitted with every appliance for the comfort of patrons, and the man who is looking for first class work will be able to find it here. Mr. Dudley has taken great pride in having the place furnished properly and he stands ready to guarantee all of the work turned out at his place as being first class in every respect. The interior work of the shop is rapidly nearing completion and he expects to move into it sometime within the next week.

Death of Michael Herron.

Michael Herron, who had been a sufferer from consumption for a number of years past, died at an early hour Monday morning at the age of forty-four years.

Mr. Herron was born in the town of Grand Rapids and has lived the greater part of his life in this city and vicinity. He was unmarried and for some years past has lived with his brother, John, on the east side.

He is survived by two brothers, John, of the east side, and William of Thief River Falls, Minn., and eight sisters, they being Mrs. Richard Guldly, Mrs. Pat Cassidy, Mrs. Martin Conway, Mrs. John Halloran, Mrs. W. M. Murray, Ella, Mary and Jennie Herron.

The funeral was held this morning from the Catholic church, Rev. F. Van Roosmalen officiating. Deceased was a member of the Catholic Order of Foresters.

Installing Their Motors.

The electric motors for the Grand Rapids mill company's plant were received last week and since that time workmen have been engaged in getting them into place. The one in the elevator was got to running on Monday and worked to perfection. This is of twenty horsepower.

There will also be three motors in the mill, one each of thirty, forty and fifty horsepower. All of the machinery has now been received for the mill, and is being placed in position as rapidly as possible. It is expected that this feed in will be ready to begin operations in about two or three weeks, but that it will be a few days or more before the other machines are started up.

A gang of masons are also engaged in brick veneering the elevator, it having been decided to do this instead of covering it with iron as was at first intended.

Another Graft.

District school officers are warned to look out for a couple of gratters who are going through the country claiming to represent a periodical called "Complete Modern School Methods," which they sell to the school officers but fail to deliver any goods for the money. The last place they were heard from was in Marathon county where they succeeded in holding up two district officers for $47.50 apiece.

Wants $100,000 For Affections.

A dispatch from Dubuque, Ia., says that George Potter is the defendant in a breach of promise suit, the complainant being Miss Sara Ham of Dubuque, and the amount she wants for her wounded affections is the modest sum of $100,000.

Mr. Potter is about 60 years of age and is fairly well to do, having been in the lumber business with J. W. Babcock at Necedah. Miss Ham claims that Mr. Potter won her affection some twenty years ago, promising to marry her when his wife died, the latter being an invalid at that time. Mrs. Potter died in the course of time but Mr. Potter failed to keep his agreement, hence the suit.

Miss Ham also claims that she gave Mr. Potter several thousand dollars some years ago which he invested, and that the investment proved successful, but that he never gave back any part of the money.

Potter claims that it is a case of blackmail from start to finish and that he will fight the case to the end. If Miss Ham can produce the evidence she claims to have at her disposal it will no doubt cause a sensation.

What "Quincy Adams Sawyer" Did.

—Did you ever court a country girl? Did you ever sing in a country church choir? Did you ever go to a husking bee? Did you ever attend a town meeting? Quincy Adams Sawyer, a young lawyer from Boston did, and that is what the play called "Quincy Adams Sawyer" to be elaborately produced here Friday night at the Grand Opera House is about. The popular New England novel of the same name told all about these happenings, but it is said they are depicted even more vividly and interestingly in play form. All who have ever been farmer boys and girls should see this beautiful New England play, for it will revive pleasant recollections. The city bred should see it to realize what they missed. The New York audiences appreciated this fact and packed the immense Academy of Music at every performance. During the recent engagement of eight weeks at the Boston Theatre the "Standing Room Only" sign had to be displayed every night. Seats now on sale.

Chapel Car Here.

Rev. C. H. Rust and wife and their car are here with us again. There will be meetings in the car every night this week excepting Wednesday and Saturday evenings. Mr. and Mrs. Rust will conduct meetings in the G. A. R. Hall next Sunday morning and evening, and in the car for young people Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The car has been through the shops and now presents a very handsome appearance both inside and out, having been repainted, varnished and otherwise decorated. An acetylene gas plant has also been installed in the car, so that there is an abundance of light with a minimum of trouble at all times. The car will be here until after Sunday.

Swan-White.

E. E. Swan of Waukesha and Miss Vincent White of Vesper were married at the Catholic parsonage in this city at 10:30 o'clock this morning, Rev. F. Van Roosmalen officiating. They were accompanied by Miss Mabel White and Thos. J. White, brother and sister of the bride.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the Davis restaurant and the young couple left the same day for a two weeks wedding tour, intending to visit Waukesha and other points in the southern part of the state.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph White of Vesper and is well known in this vicinity. The Tribune extends congratulation and wishes the newly wedded pair a long life of happiness.

Accidentally Shot.

James Dahlgard aged nine years of Veedum was accidentally shot Tuesday afternoon about six o'clock. His brother and himself took a twenty-two calibre rifle out with them and were watching a threshing machine pass when the gun was discharged in some unaccountable manner, the bullet striking James under the jaw on the left side of his head. He died at two o'clock Wednesday morning never regaining consciousness from the time he was shot.

James was the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Dahlgard of that village, and his death in this manner comes as a sudden and terrible blow to them. The funeral was held at Veedum Thursday, Rev. Maack officiating. He was buried in Mount Cemetery of this city.—Pittsville Pilot.

OF THUNDER

(Original.)

Kate was such a dashing girl that everybody wondered when she married a quiet, unobtrusive man who had a dread of thunderstorms. However, Clarence and Kate Hastings seemed to get on well enough, and certainly both adored their four children, till Bruce Saylor came along and took a fancy to Mrs. Hastings. Then trouble began. Saylor was a fine looking man, with something aggressive about him that usually gave him his own way.

One evening Saylor asked Hastings to go with him to make a call. Hastings unsuspectingly accepted. He was taken to the house of a woman whom he had never seen and left alone with her while Saylor excused himself. Then an irate husband rushed in and made a great ado about catching the visitor with his wife. Hastings got out safely, but the affair came to his wife's ears. In vain he pleaded innocence and asserted that Saylor had tricked him. Saylor told a different story, that was believed by the wife.

By this time Hastings had got the drift of the matter, which was that Saylor had acquired such an influence over his wife that she was about to join with him to remove her husband by divorce in order to put Saylor in his place. Hastings was crushed. Then out of his despair came action.

The two men were members of the same club, and one evening Saylor was discouragingly to a party of friends, monopolizing the conversation, when Hastings stepped up to him and said mildly:

"Saylor, you are a puppy. You are a thief. You are a coward."

Saylor glared at him, but made no reply. Hastings drew away and sent a message to his enemy that he might as well make up his mind to fight sooner or later, for he proposed to insult him every time he entered the club. Saylor replied that duelling was not in vogue in America. He would not fight under the code, but if Hastings did not refrain from his insults he would chastise him. To this Hastings replied that he was armed and that if Saylor laid a finger on him he would kill him.

The next night and the next, whenever and wherever the two men met, Hastings gave a deliberate insult, and at last it came to be the opinion of the club members that Saylor must take some notice of the matter or resign. Then he sent a challenge to Hastings.

No one took it upon himself or herself to inform Mrs. Hastings about the matter, and Saylor, after announcing to her the first insult and asserting that he had paid no attention to the insignificant husband, did not mention any of the later insults or the challenge. She was still very much under Saylor's influence, but was undecided from day to day what course to take. When Saylor was with her she did as he said; when he was absent she became undecided, and indecision is wearing on any one. She began to wish Saylor somewhere else.

When Hastings got the challenge that he was a month working for, his reply was ready. As the challenged party he had the choice of terms. He sent a reply that these terms were six chamber revolvers, the distance five paces, the firing to continue till both men were unable to fire any longer or the chambers of both revolvers were emptied.

Saylor sent a reply that no one could be expected to fight under terms that meant death probably to both parties, and he considered the matter at an end. Hastings sent word that death was exactly what he meant and what he would have sooner or later. Then he remained his insults.

By this time the friends of both parties began to get an inkling as to what was the trouble and sympathetically went with Hastings. Saylor began to look nervous. All his aggressiveness was gone, he ceased to talk loud and volubly, he went about with a hunched look. Meanwhile he had discontinued his visits to Mrs. Hastings.

Then came the last insult of the series. Hastings, meeting his enemy in the club, said to him publicly:

"You're a coward and won't fight, but I'll make you fight before I get through with you."

The next day Saylor sent a friend to Hastings to know what would satisfy him. Hastings replied that he could only be appeased by Saylor leaving the country under a written promise not to communicate with Mrs. Hastings and never return. Then there were negotiations in which Saylor tried to get better terms. He failed. Hastings' standard arm in requiring either death or absence. Finally Saylor yielded, sold out his business and went to England, leaving a paper in Hastings' hands exonerating Mrs. Hastings and agreeing never again to see or communicate with her.

Hastings took the paper home, told his wife what he had been doing and showed her the paper. She was not only astonished, but could not understand how she had been oblivious to so much resolution in the one man and lack of manliness in the other. She would have given worlds to undo what she had done and regain her husband's love.

"I have done it for our children," he said. "You and I will live together as husband and wife for their sake."

As years rolled by and Hastings became convinced that there had been nothing criminal on the part of his wife he forgave her.

Thus was a family saved from a perpetual horror by the resolution of its head. It goes to show that a timid man may under a great stimulus be the quintessence of bravery.

Ways in Which They Affect the Appearance of the Wearer.

Men who do not want to look any fatter in the face than they can help have an easy means of accomplishing their purpose. Not all of them are aware of the effect that may be created by the form of a collar or cravat.

"The stout man who wants to look as thin as he can," said a haberdasher's clerk, "ought to wear a tie of the kind known as a four-in-hand. Preferably it should be dark in color and drawn tight. That carries down the line of the face and lengthens it to a degree that tends to make the face look thinner."

"Another aid to making a man look thin is in the height of his collars. Stout men who want to look thin should wear high collars and closed ones. Any collar that opens in front makes one look stouter under nearly every circumstance. Such collars are becoming to the thin men."

"The fat man should avoid the kind of tie that has a horizontal effect. This will add pounds to his appearance—in his face, at least."

"On the contrary, this cross effect will make the thin man look stout. The broad scarfs have little effect on a man's looks one way or the other. When he wears them it is the collar that makes the difference."

"He should therefore see that he wears a high one that does not open if he wants to look as thin as possible, whereas if he wants to seem stouter an open collar will produce that effect for him."

English Smugglers.

Smuggling was carried on with great boldness in England a century ago. When Samuel Pellev was appointed collector of customs at Falmouth early last century he found corruption the chief characteristic of the service. One day he surprised a party of his own men attempting to smuggle in a cargo of wine in broad daylight. Pellev, who was a conscientious man, so worried the smugglers that they threatened his life repeatedly and posted bills offering a reward for his assassination. One smuggler, who kept a public house, erected a battery of guns to defend his illicit goods, and when a sloop of war exhibited what he considered a too inquisitive spirit actually fired on her. The vessel's guns were too low to reply with effect, but her crew landed in boats, attacked the house in the rear and leveled it to the ground.

The Difference in Two Words.

Did it ever occur to you to think of the difference in significance of the two words "seems" and "appears"? We say "it seems to be true" or "it appears to be true." Are those expressions identical, or is there a difference what is it?

There is a difference, and it consists chiefly in the strength of the expression. If we read a story and say, "That story seems to be true," we mean that it has the semblance of truth and we infer that it is true. If we say, "That story appears to be true," we mean that the statements made in it or the incidents related go to show its truth.

In other words, "appears" refers to the actual presentation of something to our view; "seems" refers to an inference of our mind as to the probability of a thing being true.

First Type Cast in America.

It was a good man, Christopher Sower, who made the first punch and matrices and cast the first type in America. The anvil he made them on is still preserved. They were for a German Bible which he published.

"The price of our newly finished Bible, in plain binding, with a clasp, will be 18 shillings," he said, "but to the poor and needy we have no price. John the Baptist sent the message to Christ, 'Art thou he that should come, or do we look for another?' and Jesus sent back word, 'The poor have the Gospel preached to them.'"

Sower's German Bible was printed in 1743 and was the first Bible published in America in any European language.

Thoroughly "Done Up."

"Have you done up my shirt yet?" asked the patron of the laundry.

"It is just out of the ironing room," answered the clerk, "and we will have it done up for you now, so that you may take it along with you."

"All right. I hope it has had better luck than the last one I had done up here."

"Better Luck?"

"Yes. You did it up so completely in the ironing room that it was worth doing up in the laundry."—Judge.

Good For His Business.

"If there's one thing I hate," declared the passenger who had trouble with the conductor, "it's to be contradicted."

"Well," replied the man who shared his seat, "I like to have people talk back to me."

"You do?"

"Yes. I'm an auctioneer."—Philadelphia Ledger.

After a Bargain.

The new woman had applied for a marriage license.

"How much?" she asked in a businesslike way.

"Two dollars," replied the clerk.

"Make it $1.98," she said, "and I'll take two of them."—Chicago Post.

ANCIENT CITIES.

Jerusalem in the days of Solomon probably did not contain 20,000 people. Constantinople at the time of its greatest splendor as capital of the eastern empire had a population of about 1,500,000.

Babylon, whose name has come to be synonymous with dense population, never had over 1,200,000 inhabitants in its palmiest days, so the archaeologists declare.

Athens, when she led the Greek states in repelling the invasion of Xerxes, had only 30,000 inhabitants, but Herodotus speaks of this number as if it was something to boast of.

Rome, the mistress of the world, the great city to which all roads led, "Rome the Eternal," did not exceed 2,000,000 in population. Gibbon, indeed, believes that it had only 1,200,000, and in this estimate he and Milman agree.

A Unique Command.

At Boulogne, during a royal reception, a number of English ladies in their anxiety to see everything pressed with such force against the soldiers who were keeping the line that the latter were forced to give way and generally were—to use the expression of policemen—"battered in the execution of their duty." The officer in command, observing the state of affairs, called out:

"One roll of the drum—if they don't stand back kiss them all."

After the first sound of the drum the ladies took to flight.

"If they had been French," said a Parisian journal, "they would have remained to a woman."—Illustrated Bits.

Policeman's Caution Wasted.

Just now the companions of a recent recruit to the police force are poking fun at him because of a remark he made a few nights ago when he found it necessary to arrest a very old offender. Arrived at the police station, he asked the culprit in with the injunction to "mind the supe."

"Glang with you!" said the prisoner scornfully. "I knowed these steps afore you was born!"—New York Press.

Harmony Was In Danger.

"I have here," began the chairman of the political caucus, "some charges against this organization which"—

His voice was overwhelmed by the rumble of rising indignation. When the noise subsided he continued:

"—which I will refer to the treasurer. They're for hall rent and light."

And harmony continued to reign.—Baltimore American.

His Mark in the World.

"I reckon Josh 'll make his mark in the world one of these days," said the fond mother.

"Mebbe he will," answered Farmer Cornstossel, "but I can't help wishin' I could git him to take hold of a hoe an' put a few dints into it by way of practice."—Washington Star.

Land Can Not Be Drained.

Portage, Wis., Sept. 3.—The project to drain many thousands of acres of now almost worthless marsh land along Leach creek and the Baraboo river, in the towns of Fairfield and Caledonia, has received a setback in the decision of Judge Stevens dismissing the proceedings. The plan contemplated among other things the digging of numerous "cut-offs" to shorten the course of creek and river where horse-shoe bends occur, thus facilitating the flow of water. The land sought to be reclaimed is more or less submerged a good share of the time.

The foregoing decision will be welcomed by cranberry bog owners, who feel that the drainage of their lands would result in great damage or detriment without benefitting would be purchasers of the so called reclaimed land. In other words they protest against spoiling good cranberry property to make poor farming land.

In the last analysis nobody knows, but we do know that it is under strict law. Abuse that law even lightly, pain results. Irregular living means derangement of the organs, resulting in Constipation. Concerning Game Laws.

The editor of the Grantsburg Journal takes exception at our criticism of his attack on the game laws and in order to sustain his position, fills up the greater part of his paper with talk on the matter.

Now we do not want to get into a very lengthy discussion of a matter of this kind for the reason that it is a subject that has very little interest to the average newspaper reader. There is a certain class that wants the game protected, and another that would like to see it wiped off the face of the earth, and a class, larger than both of the others put together who do not care a cent either way.

The Journal says, "The settlers of northern Wisconsin cannot help but have contempt for our present game laws," but he does not say why they cannot help but have contempt for them. He admits that the farmer who leaves his work habitually to hunt is generally not much of a farmer, and to remedy this he proposes to exterminate that game and then, there being no game to hunt, he must of necessity work. This may be so. We never saw it tested, but it is entirely probable that if there were no deer in the woods to pursue the shiftless man would be able to find some other excuse to loaf.

We cannot see how the existence of game in northern Wisconsin tends in any way to stop the march of civilization. If a man owns a farm the game law does not prevent him from clearing it up, and it is a well known fact that the average farmer who has made enough progress to be worthy of notice is not worrying in the least about the game law. He lives in the country and when he takes any recreation it is generally in some other way besides lugging a gun about the woods hunting for deer.

The Journal man also gets in a crack at the game wardens that the state is paying. Yes the game wardens are a pernicious thing and should be exterminated in preference to the game. They are costing the state a lot of money, more than the average person has any idea of. One thing might be said about the game wardens, however. It is entirely probable that were it not for this "contempt" that the Journal man talks about, they would not be necessary at all. We have many other laws that are just as stringent as the game laws, and they are no doubt offensive to a certain class of people who would like not to observe them, but they are enforced in some sort of a manner without having a special lot of men riding about thru the country to look after them. If the officers elected in the towns and counties were careful to prosecute violations of the game law the same as they do the other misdemeanors, the game warden could be abolished immediately. The game of Wisconsin was protected many years before the present elaborate system of wardens was inaugurated, and there is no reason why it could not be at the present time.

Possibly the fact that certain papers thruout the state spent much of their space in telling what a pernicious law the game law is and almost advising their readers to disregard it, is one reason why it is broken so much and game wardens are needed. The way to prove a law obnoxious is to enforce it, not to disregard it and advise others to do so. No doubt it would be impossible to pass a game law that would please every man in Wisconsin. The man in the southern part of the state views the situation differently from the man in this section, while here it is looked at from a different light from what it is in the northern part of the state, while hunters, and men who never hunt, living in the same locality, have opposite views on the matter. No doubt the extermination of the game would be the quickest solution of the problem, but the law makers do not seem to care to solve it in this manner. However, the Journal man need not worry. At the rate that settlers have been coming into Wisconsin for the past decade, it will not be many years before there will be no deer left for newspapers to argue over. This will be rather hard on the game wardens, but no doubt they will think of some other graft by that time. Necessity is the mother of invention.

Really amusing to read the articles in the stalwart newspaper concerning Governor La Follette's speeches at the county fairs about the state. They seem to suffer great mental anguish every time he appears before an audience and reads off one of his campaign speeches when he should have spoken on a totally different subject. Maybe the governor cannot be blamed. He wants to stay in office and he is not leaving any stone unturned to accomplish his object, and the stalwarts are equally anxious to get him out.

A new rifle is to be adopted by the army and navy departments of the United States. The new gun is said to be the most powerful in the world, and will, according to the testimony of experts, fire a bullet thru fifty-five men at a distance of fifty-three feet, and has range of about five miles. No doubt the deer hunters of northern Wisconsin will hail the advent of this weapon with delight. Just think how they could mow down the tall timber with a gun of this sort in their hands.

It is said that a new firm has been organized under the name of the New York Gas, Coal and Supply company which will compete with the Standard Oil company. The new firm is said to be capitalized at $20,000,000. It is entirely probable, however, that if the new company is successful it will join hands with the Standard company before anyone is hurt and together they will boost the price of oil higher than ever.

—Gertrude Warren, the celebrated Australian vocalist, the recognized Queen of Ballad Singers, who has not been heard on the American stage during the past three years, has returned to this country and signed with Leroy J. French for his Peck's Bad Boy company, and may be heard at the opera house next Monday night. All lovers of sweet singing should not miss this chance to hear one who has won distinction not only in America, but in London and Australia.

—The cast engaged by L. J. French for the production of "Peck's Bad Boy," which comes to the Grand Opera House Monday night, from its wonderful success throughout the country—including among its fifteen performers the names of some of the foremost players, among them being Billy Williams, Fred Wenzel and others. The production in itself is the most costly of any farce comedy on the road today and has been so pronounced by the press everywhere the play has been produced. Seats will be on sale Saturday.

A meeting of the members of the Congregational church was held on Monday evening at the office of F. J. Wood on the east side. Among those present were Frank Garrison, Dr. D. Waters, G. W. Mead, Dr. Rockwell, Archie McMillan, J. W. Natwick, F. J. Wood, Rev. Shaw and T. A. Taylor. The members have been contemplating some improvements about the church for some time and it was decided to build an addition to the west end of the church, put in a furnace, and redecorate the edifice. A committee consisting of G. W. Mead, Geo. W. Hill and T. A. Taylor was appointed to carry out the improvements as mapped out.

Licked the Editor.

For some time past the Green Bay Advocate has been publishing articles calling attention to the manner in which the city affairs are being conducted by the officials over there, and on Monday the city Attorney and his law partner called on Editor Singleton, and while the chief of police and an alderman stood by, jumped onto the Advocate man and gave him a thumping.

It seems they caught the editor unawares, he not even having a pair of shears in his possession when he was attacked, so that it was impossible to defend himself.

As a result of the scrap the city attorney and his partner have been arrested and charges have been preferred against chief of police on account of his part in the matter in not stopping the row.

Rudolph Creamery Burned

The creamery belonging to Ernest Gregorius, situated in the town of Rudolph about three miles east of the station, was burned to the ground on Friday night and the building and contents were a total loss. The value of the property was about $3,500 with an insurance of only $900. The origin of the fire cannot be explained by the owner and he is of the opinion that it was set on fire.

BRIEF CITY ITEMS

Fell Thirty-Five Feet.—Joseph Fisher had a narrow escape from death on Friday. He was hauling mortar in a wheelbarrow at the Consolidated works, working on the wood room, when he fell thru to the basement. He had taken a load of mortar up to the masons and in unloading it he took too much from one side of the barrow and as he was standing between the handles when it overbalanced it took him with it. He sustained some ugly wounds about the head but no bones were broken, and he was able to be about again on Tuesday. The distance Mr. Fisher fell was about thirty-five feet, the wheelbarrow load of mortar landing on top of him, and had it not been that he struck a board about six feet from the ground he would undoubtedly have been killed.

Against Work.—The Consolidated people are again at work on the excavating at their plant. The small cofferdam about the wheel pit was repaired and pumped out so that the workmen were able to commence here again on Monday, and since then no time has been lost. Work on the east end of the dam near the Grand Rapids Foundry is also progressing, and this will be completed in a short time. Railway tracks are being laid to the top of the dam and a narrow gauge engine will be used to haul cars over the line to remove the rock and debris. The old dam across the river opposite the foundry is being blown out with dynamite preparatory to building the eastern end of the dam.

A Pleasant Party.—The dance given by the members of the Eastern Star Lodge on Friday evening was a marked success, as there was a large attendance and everybody seemed to have a good time. It is the intention of the order to give a series of dances and if anything can be judged by the first one they will become very popular. The only drawback to Friday night's entertainment was the fact that the crowd was rather larger than the hall could accommodate.

A Fine Souvenir.—The Tribune is in receipt of a copy of the Merrill Advocate souvenir edition, published under date of September 23rd. It is a very nicely gotten up book on fine, heavy paper, profusely illustrated with halftones of prominent men, public and private buildings, and pretty landscapes. The cover contains an etching of the new Lincoln Co. court house which is a very handsome building.

Notice of Raise.—The Wood county telephone company has served its patrons with notice to the effect that after the 1st day of October the telephone rate in this city will be raised 25 cents per month. This makes business phones $2.50 and residence phones $1.25 per month. It is the opinion of the directors that the rate can be lowered later on.

Another Teacher.—On account of the unusual attendance in the public schools another teacher has been added to the already large corps now employed by the city. Miss Florence Curran of Stevens Point has been engaged and will teach in the first and second grades in the first ward building.

Milk Route Sold.—C. H. Wood has sold his milk route and dairy to B. G. Chandos, who will hereafter operate the same. The consideration was $1,800 and the sale included something over 50 milch cows, wagons, etc., for operating the same.

Will Give a Dance.—Kramer's ten piece orchestra will give a dance at the opera house on Tuesday evening, October 6th. The orchestra has been working up a lot of new music and promise dancers a good time. Tickets will be $1.00.

All Like "Quincy Adams Sawyer."

—Everybody who has seen "Quincy Adams Sawyer" in play form is enthusiastic over its unique charm. There has been nothing in the line of rural plays to compare with it. All the scenery has been specially built and painted for this production and is very effective in the following acts and scenes: first act, Benoni Hill's grocery store; second act (first scene) the Cross-roads, four miles from Mason's Corner; (second scene) Mrs. Putnam's setting-room; third act, the Putnam farm-yard; fourth act, exterior of the Pettengill homestead. There are 21 speaking parts and the company is well cast. The engagement at Grand Rapids is for one night Friday, Oct. 2d and the same performance in every detail seen in New York during the Academy of Music run, comes here. Kramer's new 10 piece orchestra furnishes the music.
